■ RESEARCH—A study by researchers at the University of California, San Diego, published in the Journal of Neuroscience, found that the brain's ability to learn from experience is impaired in mice with a mutation in a gene that encodes a protein called Grin1. The researchers found that the mutation in Grin1 led to a decrease in the number of Grin1 receptors on the surface of neurons, which in turn led to a decrease in the ability of the neurons to learn from experience.
